

Making a process visible makes a practice reflect-able ~ John Maeda

What does the learning journey look like? Illustrate the learning you have designed and the students will experience. You can use any format or dimensions you think are relevant. You might choose a graph that charts intellectual or emotional highs and lows, a map that documents the journey, a conceptual framework that contrasts your disciplinary approach to the design thinking approach... Draw on the activities, methods, assessments, tools, celebrations and mindsets to annotate your visualization.
